

CELEBRATING A LIFE

in

TENNESSEE ART

Lloyd Branson, 1853–1925

Branson

in CELEBRATING A LIFE
TENNESSEE ART
Lloyd Branson, 1853–1925

SPONSORED BY JOHN Z. C. THOMAS
and AN ANONYMOUS DONOR

SPECIAL FIRST FRIDAY PREVIEW

6:00-8:00 p.m., November 6, 2015

2015 2016

THE EAST TENNESSEE HISTORICAL SOCIETY
MUSEUM of EAST TENNESSEE HISTORY

NOVEMBER 7 - MARCH 20

601 South Gay Street, Downtown Knoxville
M-F 9-4 | SAT 10-4 | SUN 1-5
ETHS Members FREE | Sundays FREE

◀ The Museum of East Tennessee History is across Gay Street from where one of Branson's studios once stood

PO Box 1629
Knoxville, TN 37901

MORE INFORMATION

www.eastTNhistory.org/lloydbranson

www.bransonart.org

Courtesy of the Tennessee State Museum,
Nashville, Tennessee

Courtesy of the Johnson Collection,
Spartanburg, South Carolina

Courtesy of the Calvin M. McClung Collection,
Knox County Public Library

Courtesy of the Calvin M. McClung Collection,
Knox County Public Library

Native genius. Boy artist. These and other descriptors were often applied to Lloyd Branson, who grew from a precocious sketcher on his family's East Tennessee farm to an accomplished artist best known for portraits and depictions of early Tennessee history. For the first time, Branson is the subject of a major retrospective, which chronicles his life, works of art, and legacy as one of the most influential figures in Knoxville's early art circles. Please join us in celebrating Branson's life and art!

Branson

DEAR FRIEND OF HISTORY